Treasure Ship Violated U. S. Coastwise Laws

The Kronprinzessin Cecilie violated the United States coastwise shipping laws by putting into Bar Harbor, Me., after she had cleared from New York, but Acting Secretary Sweet, of the Department of Commerce, has remitted the penalty in view of the circumstances. Under the American laws a foreign-owned boat cannot touch another American port after sailing, and a minimum penalty of $1,000 fine attaches to landing passengers or cargoes at such second port. The fact that the steamer put back to port with a cargo of more than $10,000,000 in gold to avoid its being captured as a prize of war, however, induced the department to remove the penalty and give orders that the boat be allowed to land passengers and cargo.

Assurance is given by the Builders' League that, if conditions warrant, with the beginning of the new working year, August 1, 1915, the scale will be raised to 60 cents an hour.

Produced originally at Palm Beach, Fla., by John Drew and Maude Adams, the play proved one of Drew's most successful plays. A. H. Van Buren has been cast as Frederick Oastler. Mr. Drew's part, with Dorothy Bernard playing the role created by Maude Adams, "The Butterflies" is a comedy in three acts by Henry Guy Carlton. Its scenes are laid at St. Augustine, Fla., and Lenox, Mass., where the philanthropic millionaire of the play maintains magnificent residences.

The play was produced originally in Washington by the cast that included Blanche Walsh, Robert Drouet, and Dorothy Dorr in the three central roles. These will be interpreted next week by Miss Jewel in the character first played by Miss Walsh; Carl Brickert, who will have the role created by Robert Drouet, and Miss Kent, who will play "The Woman in the Case." The basis of the drama is a supposed murder. Its opening scenes, which show the setting in motion the machinery of the law, catch the attention of an audience. The story culminates in a duel of wits between the two women.

Francesca Redding and her company of character actors in "Honora" will remain to head the bill at the Cosmos Theatre. The Colonial Beach management announces one of the latest and best devices for the accommodation of vacationers brought to the beach by excursionists. About twenty stands have been erected along the boardwalk, each stand containing sixteen vaults or lockers. Each locker has a key which cannot be released until a 10-cent piece has been inserted. Visitors can put their belongings in the lockers and get them readily without waiting in a long line at the check room as was formerly the case. The steamer St. Johns leaves the Seventh street wharf on trips to the beach every day, except Monday at 9 a. m. and on Saturdays at 2:30 p. m.

Preparations are complete for giving society's most favored dance, half-and-half, at Cherry Chase Lake tonight. The requisite music arrived from New York in time for the Marine Band players to master its intricate cadence, and expectant throngs will see Ralph Blum, Robey and Mabel Fairfax interpret its graceful steps.
